

Explore the Canyons of the San Juan River

with Historian Andrew Guilliford

Join us this July as we explore 86 miles of the San Juan River in Southeast Utah. Along the way we will visit Ancestral Puebloan cliff dwellings and pictographs, splash our way along the gentle river, and enjoy the tales of this storied place with award-winning author and historian Andrew Gulliford

We will start our trip near Bluff Utah and the newly designated Bears Ears National Monument, pass through the world renowned Goosenecks, and finish in the serenely beautiful red rock bends above Glen Canyon. The San Juan is known for its wilderness quality experience, exceptional star gazing, and memorable side hikes making for an unforgettable adventure!

Andrew Gulliford is a professor of history and Environmental Studies at Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colorado. He teaches popular courses on wilderness, national parks, Western and Environmental history. He is the author of Outdoors in the Southwest, Sacred Objects and Sacred Places: Preserving Tribal Traditions, and Boomtown Blues: Colorado Oil Shale, which won the Colorado Book Award.

Gulliford has had led tours across the West for the Smithsonian Institution, National Geographic Society, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Rocky Mountain Public Broadcasting Service (PBS), and many others.

Dates: July 9 - 16, 2018
Space is limited to 12 guests, Call
435-587-2156 to reserve your spot
Cost: $1350

Contact David Taft, Adventure Director,
for more information at
DTaft@FourCornersSchool.org or
435-587-2156x1021