Next SJBAS Meeting: July 13 at the FLC Lyceum & on Zoom

There will be no speaker program in June.

You can find the link and more information at sibas.org

President's Message

I am happy that our May meeting was able to meet in-person and that we are able to socialize again. We had a number of people join us on Zoom, also. If you missed the presentation you can find a recording on the SJBAS website at sjbas.org.

I look forward to seeing you at the SJBAS Summer Picnic and Semi-Annual meeting on June 8th at the Junction Creek Group Campground. SJBAS will provide bratwursts and non-alcoholic drinks. Bring your appetite there will be many potluck dishes to choose from - and bring your own place setting and utensils. We'll be keeping our fingers crossed for good weather!

Also, bring your checkbook and/or cash. The picnic will include a Silent Auction fund raiser for the John W. Sanders Internship and Education Fund. The auction will feature archaeological books that belonged to long time SJBAS members John Sanders, Guy Tomberlin and Barb Lawson and Ray Turner. Some of the books are autographed and the collection includes authors such as Steve Lekson and Florence Lister. There are books about Chaco, petroglyphs and many other interesting subjects.

There are still open slots for some of our field trips. You can find the list of these awesome trips under the Field Trips and Activities tab at sjbas.org.

We continue to look for a volunteer to assist with finding speakers for our monthly meetings. This is an opportunity to meet people from Four Corners area and all over the country. Please contact Janice Sheftel at janicesheftel@gmail.com to volunteer.

Thank you to all of the SJBAS volunteers and members!

Sincerely, Susan Hicks SJBAS President

SJBAS Annual Picnic, June 8

Save the date. The annual SJBAS picnic is a go for June 8 from 5-8 PM at the Junction Creek Group Picnic Area just outside Durango. The site has a capacity of 65 people so if you have not confirmed your attendance, please contact Michelle or Mark at the addresses below. As in the past, SJBAS will provide brats, vegetarian brats, buns, condiments, ice tea, lemonade, and water. Members are asked to bring their favorite potluck dish-- salads, sides, and desserts-- and their plates and utensils. We're also asking for volunteers to assist with grilling, setup, cleanup and silent auction setup. If you have questions, please email Michelle or Mark McKibben (michellemckibben56@gmail.com, maypo1054@gmail.com). As with all SJBAS events, attendees must be vaccinated and sorry, no pets.

Calendar of Field Trips, Speakers and Events for 2022

See SJBAS.org for details on each of these field trips or events. You must be a SJBAS member to participate in field trips. All are welcome to attend speaking events.

Member Profile: Erica Tucker

Erica and trail companion, Lucy

Erica Tucker recently led a highly applauded trip for SJBAS through Montezuma Canyon. While we hope she leads more trips like this, she'll have to be coaxed away from her day job as volunteer services director for the San Juan Mountain Association. In that position she matches volunteers with opportunities. Her busy season is upon us as she conducts ten training sessions over the next month or so. Trained volunteers staff trailheads at Ice Lakes, the Colorado Trail, Chicago Basin, and Blue Lakes, among others. They are also out on the trails educating visitors on best practices, particularly "Leave no Trace." She also trains docents for their SJMA Nature Center which is south on Hwy 550 toward Farmington. You can learn more about SJMA at sjma.org.

While Erica majored in Anthropology at Connecticut College, she probably didn't think it would lead to a remarkable day with Sally Jewell, former Secretary of the Interior. Some years back Erica took a position with Friends of Cedar Mesa in Bluff. Shortly after starting she was asked to accompany Secretary Jewell on a day hike of Grand Gulch. She learned up close and personal the concept of the Outdoor Museum as espoused by Fred Blackburn. During the hike the group saw in situ an ancient sandal and an undamaged pot.

On Erica's short list of things to see are Pueblitos in the Farmington area, mostly on BLM land. She's also interested in seeing the solstice sunrise at Salman Ruins and the Camp Verde area near Sedona, Ariz; home to Montezuma Castle NM, Tuzigoot NM and many other archaeological sites.

It's said that you are shaped by friends and family and what you read. Erica's main influencers are her parents and especially her dad who said, love what you do. She is also most influenced by friends who are more focused on adventure than finances; people who are curious about life.

Field School Scholarship Recipient: Mollie Lemasters

Mollie Lemasters is a fourth-year student majoring in Anthropology, with a minor in Geology and a certification in Geographic Information Systems (GIS) at Fort Lewis College. Mollie is originally from Charleston, West Virginia, and currently resides in Aztec, New Mexico. She gained interest in Anthropology, particularly through a desire to pursue Cultural Resource Management (CRM). Along with GIS, she has a strong interest in remote sensing techniques and how they apply to the discipline of archaeology. A more recent goal of hers is obtaining a drone certification through the Federal Aviation Administration. For an upcoming project, Mollie is expecting to work with Dr. Jesse Tune of Fort Lewis College, and the Bureau of Reclamation at Lake Nighthorse, Colorado, to monitor shoreline erosion. Outside of school, Mollie enjoys hiking, camping, and diving into the exploration opportunities that both Colorado and New Mexico provide. Gaining support through the San Juan Basin Archaeology Society, Mollie is able to attend highly regarded field school programs offered by Fort Lewis College to further her expertise in archaeological field methods.

Mollie inventories Pueblo I period ceramics at Canyons of the Ancients Visitor Center and Museum

Volunteer Opportunities

SJBAS is an all-volunteer organization and we are looking for volunteers to fill the following position. Getting involved is a great way to meet people and contribute to SJBAS.

Program Co-Chair: We are looking for a volunteer to work with our Program Chair, Janice Sheftel. The Program Chair secures speakers for regular membership meetings and works with other SJBAS members to organize other lectures, such as the John W. Sanders Lecture. This is a Board position. Please contact Janice at janicesheftel@gmail.com for more information.

We look forward to working with you!

Native American Perspective: Ed Kabotie

Last month the Southwest Colorado Canyons Alliance (SCCA) hosted a talk by Ed Kabotie at the Canyons of the Ancients Visitors Center and Museum in Dolores. Ed is a musician and artist who grew up in the Hopi and Tewa societies. Membership in these communities was mutually exclusive until they created an exception for him to join both.

SCCA co-founder, Diane McBride, did a nice job of summarizing the highlights of his talk in a message to Canyons of the Ancients site stewards. Among the points made:

Diane: How can site stewards be more respectful of the sites we monitor?

Ed: When he comes to a site, he reminds visitors that these are not ruins. He introduces himself and asks permission to enter. He offers a prayer and sprinkles cornmeal.

Diane: How can we emulate this as we are not their descendants? We also introduce ourselves and focus on the people who once lived, loved and cried there. She said it's ok to be curious about a site but moderate your actions by not climbing on walls. It's ok to pick up artifacts but put them back exactly where you found them. We are guests.

Ed will also have a presentation at the Cortez Cultural Center on July 10.

Boarding School Report Released by Haaland

Last month the Department of the Interior released the Federal Indian Boarding School Initiative Investigative Report, commissioned by Secretary Deb Haaland. The report identified 408 boarding schools in 37 states that operated between 1819 and 1969. It identified a handful of schools in the Four Corners area and included: Ft. Lewis Boarding School, Hesperus; Southern Ute Boarding School, Ignacio; Ute Mountain Boarding School, Towaoc; and 45 schools in New Mexico. A list of schools by state is here. You can find details about each school here. The findings state that the US Government targeted Native Americans with systematic forced cultural assimilation and territorial dispossession. At least 53 burial sites for more than 500 children were identified with additional research expected to find more.

As a postscript to this story, Colorado Governor Polis signed a bill to establish a program to investigate events, abuses and deaths occurring at these schools within the state. History Colorado will take the lead in this investigation.

National Trust for Historic Preservation Announces Most Threatened Sites. Nothing nearby made the list but it's fascinating to see what is nearby. Bears Ears is described as a "success story" but one has to wonder for how long. Also nearby: Chimney Rock NM, Aztec NM, Acoma Pueblo. Only one Native American site made the Top 11 Most Threatened list and that is Picture Cave in Warren County, Missouri. You can explore the entire list of sites here.

Some Navajo Push back on Creating Chaco Buffer Zone. An article in the Navajo Times reports that some 153 Navajo allottees told the BLM they opposed withdrawing the BLM land around Chaco from oil and gas development. BLM said the proposed withdrawal will not affect existing lease-holders or Navajo allottees nor change the Park boundary. One allottee testified that Interior Secretary Haaland is biased against Navajo. There is also lingering resentment, the story reports, over how the Park Services evicted some Navajo families decades ago to create the park. You can read the article here.

Cahokia Mounds to become a National Monument? Three hundred former NPS employees drafted a short list of six potential new monuments that included the site near St. Louis. Cahokia has been the subject of speculation of cross-cultural influence with Chaco Canyon. You can read more from the article in E&E News here.

Old Pueblo Archaeology newsletter offers a marvelous primer on color and Ancestral Puebloan pottery. One insight is that the hachure, the thin parallel lines you see on some pottery, may represent the blue-green associated with a water motif. You can read the full article here.

Museum and Visitors Center Update

The School for Advanced Research's Indian Arts Research Center begins this month offering weekly tours. The tours of their collections in Santa Fe are Wednesdays and Fridays at 2 PM and cost $15. You can learn more here.

Andy Simon: An Appreciation

SJBAS past president Andy Simon passed away February 24, 2022, in Albuquerque NM, after several years of declining health. Andy is survived by his wife Marion Simon. Andy and Marion were SJBAS members for many years. They led trips and were active trip participants in backpacking trips, car camping trips and day trips. They both volunteered for various club activities including the annual CAS meeting when our chapter hosted the meeting. We remember many good times with them on many trips through the years, Andy's great sense of humor and good-natured teasing, and how quickly Andy assisted anyone who might need a hand up a steep slope or a high step. Our sympathies are with Marion as she adjusts to life without Andy. --Gail Schulz
